Residents win battle to save estate garages

PLANS to demolish garages to make way for affordable housing have been withdrawn due to complaints from local people.

Four garage sites on the Clements Estate and a further site on Cambridge Way, Haverhill, would have been turned into flats, houses and maisonettes, in the plan proposed by Havebury Housing Partnership.

But three of the five applications are being re-submitted by the firm following a consultation with residents last week – and one has been thrown out completely.

Six maisonettes and two houses were proposed for Norton Road following the demolition of 24 garages. Seven homes were also proposed for Orford Road.

Now, both of these applications have been withdrawn.

The plans for Norton Road received more than 50 objections, with those for Orford Road receiving more than 30.

Havebury has confirmed that new plans will be drawn up, in line with residents' concerns, and submitted to St Edmundsbury Borough Council at a later date.

An application for two bungalows on Ladygate has been thrown out completely, and plans for two flats and four houses on Cambridge Way, to the north of the town, have been modified.

Cllr Maureen Byrne, deputy mayor and ward member for Haverhill South, organised a meeting on Monday for residents to share their views.

It was also attended by borough council planning officers, Havebury representatives, county Cllr Julian Flood and Cllr Roger André, town mayor.

Cllr Byrne said: "Residents had their opportunity to say just how they felt; my view is they will not accept anything that will destroy their family estate and the pulling down of their garages."

The fifth application, for two maisonettes and two houses on Nayland Road, is also being adjusted to reflect the needs of existing homes on Ladygate.

It is hoped that the new plans for Nayland Road,

Norton Road and Orford Road will be drawn up over the coming weeks.

Once these revised plans are available, a further consultation event will be held with those affected.

Paul Edwards, Director of Resources at Havebury, said: "We are working our way through all the comments that have been made so far regarding the planning applications and Havebury will continue to work with the borough council and our architects to revise the proposals."

"Havebury is trying to balance the needs of those living in the neighbourhoods with those people in housing need. We are also listening to the concerns about parking and, working with Suffolk County Council, will look to help address these in the new proposals."

A town council planning meeting will be held at Haverhill Arts Centre on Tuesday, from 7pm, to discuss the plans.

Running through the rain to make history in town

POURING rain and cold winds failed to dampen the spirits of more than 350 runners who turned out to make history in Haverhill.

Participants in the first ever Haverhalf and Haver10 could be spotted across town on Sunday, determined to get to the finish line despite the cruel weather.

The races, both in aid of St Nicholas Hospice Care, started and finished on the Recreation Ground with routes going along the High Street, out to Sturmer and through the Chalkstone Estate.

Jack Tappin, race director, hopes the events will become an annual fixture in the town.

He said: "I was astonished by how well received the race has been, both in the levels of excitement in the town leading up to it and participation on the day."

"I originally hoped to attract 200 runners, and having had almost 400 the day when I celebrated reaching the benchmark of 100 seems an age away now.

"I know Haverhill has a vibrant running scene and thriving community, and this was evidence of that by the number of runners, both from the town and across the region, and the level of support in people volunteering their time and businesses funding or supporting the event."

Mr Tappin also addressed some technical problems on the day with recording times, PA announcements regarding headphones and drivers ignoring road closures. These will all be looked at and "put right" for future years, he said.

Among the runners was Matthew Hancock, West Suffolk MP, who was competing in his first ever half marathon. Mr Hancock crossed the finish line with a time of one hour and 50 minutes.

"Despite the miserable weather, the Haver10 and Haverhalf went brilliantly on Sunday," he said.

"The atmosphere was fantastic with people supporting runners all along the route."

Andrew Mynott, of Springfield Striders, won the Haver10 in 33 minutes, while Tom Kingsnorth, of St Edmund Pacers came in second place.

Carrie Bedingfield was the first female finisher in the 10k, with a time of 42 minutes.

The half marathon winner was Matthew Slater, of Cambridge and Coleridge Athletic Club, who completed the race in 1.21:30.

Cllr Roger André, town mayor, handed out prizes to category winners on the day.

RUNNING MAD

Non-runner Debra Fox gets off the sofa & in training for Haverhill's inaugural 10K

CROSSING the finish line did not feel how I thought it would.

It was even better.

Despite being near collapse by the end, jogging over the finish to collect my medal and goodie bag was an amazing feeling – and one well worth all of the blisters, sweat and tears of the last eight weeks.

I know I have been big on complaining over the training period – but for someone who has never run before, this felt like my Mount Everest.

I'm still undecided as to whether or not the rain was a good thing. On the plus side, I wasn't too hot (though perhaps I wasn't working hard enough) but I did feel very shivery afterwards (nothing a little lie down in the car and a two-courser at Frankie and Benny's couldn't cure).

Did anyone else have a bit of trouble jogging through East Town Park? It was quite muddy, and I was convinced that I was going to fall so I slowed to a power walk.

For anyone keeping score, my finish time was 1.10:22. Only a mere 10 minutes off my target, so I'll take that.

Thank you to the marshals for keeping us right and for everyone who cheered us on – special mention must go to my boyfriend Jamie, my editor Wendy Davey and her children Jessica and Tom for being my personal cheerleaders (I had the best banners ever, in case anyone spotted them!)

I can now go into my holiday next week and gorge without worrying how it will affect my training.

But next, we are looking for a fresh challenge for me to embark on when I return (please, no running for this one!)

The catch – it must have a link to Haverhill in some way whether it's through an upcoming event or local group.

Don't forget to get in touch with your race day experiences too.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Two vehicle collision

TWO vehicles were involved in a collision in Kedington on Friday.

Suffolk Police were called to the incident, in Silver Street, at 7.55am.

The collision was between a Land Rover Defender and a VW Polo.

A spokesman from the East of England Ambulance Service confirmed that a woman in her 50s, who had minor injuries to her face and chest, was treated.

A male, in his late teens was also assessed at the scene, but was uninjured.

Neither people required hospital treatment.

Town's experimental traffic order scrapped

DEBRA FOX

PLANS to make a town centre street one-way have been dropped, it has been revealed.

Last year, it was proposed that part of Camps Road, Haverhill, would be made one-way as a means of cutting traffic flow on the town's High Street.

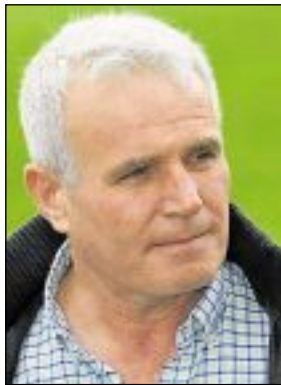

It was estimated that traffic on the road would reduce by as much as 60 per cent by making Camps Road, from Swan Lane to Mill Road, one-way.

The bottom of Mill Road, between Chantry Road and Helions Park Avenue, would have been changed to one-way southbound, from northbound.

The plans were initially revealed in November last year and were expected to start early this year.

A consultation then took place with residents to gauge local reaction to the plan – with many living on the main routes affected by the proposal opposed to the idea.

A county council spokesman said that Cllr Graham Newman, cabinet member for roads and transport, has decided not to continue with the traffic order following concerns from the town's county councillors.

Cllr Tony Brown, who sits on both county and St Edmundsbury Borough councils, has been very vocal against the plan from the start.

He said: "I am glad that the county council eventually got round to listening to all of the affected residents."

"This experiment was not very popular amongst those residents and we need a long term solution – not just a quick fix."

Cllr Brown had previously called for wider consultation to be carried

NO CARS: The experimental traffic order, designed to cut traffic on the High Street, above, has been cancelled. Cllr Tony Brown, left out with all of those in the surrounding area before the plan was enforced.

More than 400 people responded during the consultation period, which ran during February and March, to share their views on the proposals.

Concerns were expressed about the amount of traffic that would be sent up other streets in the town.

The spokesman added: "We will be investigating other options. We may, of course, need to revisit the experimental traffic order option in the future if no other workable solutions are found."

Haverhill High Street is supposed to be restricted to pedestrians and authorised vehicles only, between 10am and 4pm.

Attempted robbery: Two men arrested

DEBRA FOX

A TEENAGER has been charged with attempted robbery after an incident at a Haverhill convenience store.

The incident happened at the Primrose Mini Market, on Primrose Hill, on Friday shortly after 7.30am.

Mitchell Voller, of Warren Court, has also been charged with possession of a firearm, while committing an offence.

The 18-year-old appeared at West Suffolk Magistrates' Court yesterday and the case was adjourned. He will next appear at Ipswich Crown Court on June 6.

He has been remanded in custody.

A 16-year-old boy was also arrested on suspicion of attempted robbery yesterday and was being questioned by police at Bury St Edmunds Police Investigation Centre.

Ainkaran Jeyarajah, who has run Primrose Mini Market for three years, was in the shop when two masked men, one of them holding a gun, entered and attempted to steal alcohol.

When Mr Jeyarajah, who was alone at work, intervened and pushed one of the suspects away, the other threatened him with the pistol.

"I said, 'if you're going to shoot me, then shoot me, but I won't allow you to steal from my shop,'" he said.

"I don't want to seem fearful in these type of incidents, because then they will keep trying again and again - this area is getting worse and worse."

Mr Jeyarajah, 35, then called out for his colleague, who had not yet arrived at work. This scared the men off, and they left the shop before running up Primrose Hill.

Mr Jeyarajah believes the same two men were banging on the shutters outside his shop and shouting before he opened the shop at 5am.

In a separate incident in 2011, a worker at the shop was threatened with a knife, and forced to hand over more than £100 from the till.

There has been a continuous stream of minor problems since, Mr Jeyarajah said, but this was the first time any of them had been threatened with a gun.

Ashwin Koragal, 24, who also works at the shop, said: "We used to have a lot of problems here all the time, but it seemed to calm down."

Man had over 2,000 indecent images on PC

A MAN who had more than 2,000 indecent images of children on his computer has escaped a prison sentence.

Anthony Johnson, of Chestnut Close, Haverhill, was arrested following an operation by the National Crime Agency, carried out in October of last year.

The 41-year-old pleaded guilty to four counts of making indecent images at West Suffolk Magistrates Court in April. He was sentenced at Ipswich Crown Court on May 8.

Judge Peter Jacobs sentenced Johnson to a three year community order.

He was also ordered to sign on the sexual offenders register for five years and take part in an internet sex offender treatment programme.

The NCA operation saw warrants executed across five counties, including Norfolk and Suffolk.

Summer reading challenges

HAVERHILL library is taking part in a reading project this summer.

Summer Reads invites readers to explore new books and writers. Eight books are selected for the initiative, which is running in Suffolk for the first time this year.

Haverhill is one of two libraries in the county taking part. The other is Bury St Edmunds.

The booklist includes crime, short stories, poetry and romance.

Events for the project are taking place at Haverhill Library in July - these are free to attend, but a place needs to be reserved.

A 'confident reader' workshop is taking place on July 5, from 2pm, with BJ Epstein, and a Get Involved session to learn more about the project is taking place on July 2 from 5.30pm.

For more information about the booklist, events and authors visit summerreads.org.uk.

Call Haverhill Library on 01440 702638.

Charity fight night a success

LOCAL boxers took to the ring to do their bit for a cancer charity.

The Haverhill Fight Night took place at the leisure centre on Saturday, with more than 300 people in attendance.

Fighters Carl Ledger, Luke Monks and Jake Batchelor went head to head in 12 fights, featuring boxing and thai boxing, for the Teenage Cancer Trust.

James Purkiss, centre manager, said: "It has certainly shown local boxing in a very positive light and I hope it encourages others to give it a try." The amount raised from the event will be announced in the coming weeks.

Chinese lanterns are a fire hazard

THE summer months and the wedding season are almost upon us. A time for great cheer, many believe releasing Chinese lanterns (also known as sky lanterns) is a great way to add colour to a landmark occasion.

We don't want to spoil people's fun, and we appreciate that these lanterns may look beautiful and romantic as they drift off into the night sky, but people should be aware they are serious fire hazards.

Releasing a naked flame with absolutely no control over where it will land endangers lives and poses a serious threat to properties, businesses, wildlife and the environment.

In the last 12 months, lanterns have been confirmed as the cause of a number of serious incidents across the country, including:

■ a recycling plant fire in Smethwick in the West Midlands that had to be tackled by 200 fire fighters and caused £6million damage;

■ a fire at a Leisure Park in Worcestershire that destroyed more than 80 towing caravans and mobile homes in storage;

■ a car being burnt out directly outside a property on a large housing estate in north-east Lincolnshire – thankfully the fire did not spread and there were no injuries;

■ a farmer in Northamptonshire losing two of his Aberdeen Angus cattle after they suffered from internal bleeding when the wire from a spent lantern that had landed in a field was inadvertently baled and fed to them.

A report published last year on behalf of Defra that investigated the impact of sky lanterns on livestock and the environment estimated between three and eight million lanterns are sold each year in the UK. It concluded that "the fire risk associated with the use of sky lanterns is significant".

With such a large amount of lanterns being purchased, and ultimately released, it is extremely likely the number of serious

With many lanterns being released at wedding celebrations, gaining the support of the public, local authorities, and wedding venues to prohibit their use is vital in preventing fires and deaths in this county – and beyond. Crime author Alison Bruce visits Kedington Library

CRIME author Alison Bruce has paid a visit to Kedington Library.

The author met with readers and residents last week to talk about her career, answer questions and sign copies of her book.

More than 20 people turned up to the event, and Teresa Bailey, manager, said they were "full to capacity".

She said: "The event was brilliant. Alison was really interesting and told us about the process of becoming an author, to becoming a published author."

Alison also told guests about how the crime scene details in her novels are checked by a pathologist before going to print.

Mrs Bailey added: "She spoke for about an hour, answered our questions and signed some copies of her book.

"The event was very well supported by the local community."

The event raised £25 for the Friends of Kedington Library through refreshment sales. Entry was free.

Little ones can also take part in a teddy bear hunt within the market – with a free mini bear for all participants.

Cards will be available from the Love Your Local Market stall, and participants will explore the market and fill in their cards in exchange for the prize.

Sharon Fairweather, market development officer for West Suffolk, added: "We have enough traders signed up to make a little market on Saturday – there will be lots of things going on."

Visit the Love Your Local Market stall on Haverhill market this Saturday to join in with the hunt, and for more information.

Fill in the coupon, left, and take it along to claim a free Love Your Local Market gift.

Rector re-bailed amid enquiries into alleged fraud

DEBRA FOX

A CHURCH minister who was arrested on suspicion of fraud in March has been re-bailed pending further enquiries.

Rev Canon Ian Finn, of St Mary's Church in Haverhill, will now answer bail on June 26, a spokesman for Suffolk Police confirmed.

He was arrested on March 4 on suspicion of fraud by false representation and was initially bailed until April 2.

This was extended until yesterday.

As previously reported, Mr Finn went onto extended leave in February while "financial irregularities" within his work for the church were looked in to.

Mr Finn was then suspended by the Church of England at the time of his arrest, pending the results of a police investigation.

A spokesman for the Church of England in Suffolk previously confirmed that the parishes of Haverhill and Withersfield are being supported during this time.

Rev Cheryl Collins stepped in earlier this year to act as rural dean, during Mr Finn's absence.

Big Vauxhall event this weekend

DRIVERS purchasing a new vehicle from Drive Vauxhall this weekend will receive a gift.

Customers will be given £500-worth of free fuel as part of the Vauxhall Big Event, held from Friday – Monday at the dealership on Duddery Road, Haverhill.

The free fuel offer is available on a wide range of models, including commercial vehicles.

Sarah Ferrari, market area general manager, said: "The Vauxhall Big Event will come as welcome news to motorists looking for a new vehicle.

"It gives drivers the opportunity to take advantage of a range of fantastic incentives, from helping to cut costs at the fuel pumps to discounts on accessories."

Dealership customers can also get 20 per cent off Vauxhall accessories during the event, including sat navs, iPhone and iPad cradles and cargo liners.

Award for HR team's work at transformation

A NATIONAL award could be given to a human resource team for their work in transforming two councils.

The West Suffolk HR team has worked with both Forest Heath District and St Edmundsbury Borough council on combining services to save the authorities millions of pounds.

Their efforts in creating a single staffing structure and a new pay and benefits package have led to them being shortlisted for the national HR Excellence 2014 Awards.

Cllr Stephen Edwards is the cabinet member for resources at Forest Heath and Cllr David Ray is the cabinet member for resources at St Edmundsbury.

They said: "We add our congratulations to this thoroughly-deserved national recognition."

The team is up for the Best HR Team category – and are the only council to be listed.

Most other finalists are from private sector firms.

The results will be revealed on July 1.

Pay tribute to a loved one with memorial tree

A MEMORIAL tree is being put up in a funeral parlour in Haverhill for people to pay their respects to loved ones.

The tree will be in the Co-operative Funeralcare, on Haverhill High Street, from June 2-30.

The willow twig tree will be especially in memory of babies and children, up to the age 16.

Families are being invited to fill out butterfly tags, which will be available in the branch, to share a memory and hang it on the tree.

Everyone is welcome to take part, not just customers of Co-operative Funeralcare.

Mandy Goodwin, funeral arranger, said: "To write something down and put it somewhere can be a release for people."

You can pick up tags, or go in to write your message from Monday to Friday, between 9am and 5pm.

Call 01440 712365 for details.

Ditch the car and walk to school next week

FAMILIES across Haverhill are being encouraged to take part in Walk to School Week.

The initiative, which is running from May 19-23, is being championed by Live Well Suffolk.

Steven Lee-Foster, director of Live Well Suffolk, said: "Walking to school is a really easy way for families to incorporate regular physical activity into their daily routine and it counts towards their recommended amount of exercise, which is 60 active minutes a day for children and 150 active minutes a week for adults."

Participants can also take part in the Walk This Way Suffolk challenge, which launched this week.

Walks can be recorded online, and those taking part can be entered into a prize draw every day.

The challenge is a group project, and part of the ambition for Suffolk to become the most active county.

Mr Lee-Foster said: "You can share your experiences and upload your walking photos by using the social media hashtag #walkthiswaysuffolk to encourage others to get involved too."

Men plead not guilty to five burglaries

TWO men have been remanded in custody after pleading not guilty to a string of burglaries in Haverhill.

John Tillett, 48, of Hamlet Road, Haverhill, and Joseph Tillett, 24, of Manchester Grove, London, are accused of five offences, allegedly taking place between October 23 and December 19 of last year.

The men both appeared at Ipswich Crown Court on Friday, and pleaded not guilty to four offences of burglary, and one of aggravated burglary.

The aggravated burglary is said to have taken place at an address in Withersfield Road, Haverhill, on November 11. The men were allegedly in possession of a knife.

Addresses for the burglaries include Broadcroft Crescent, Fern Grove and Yerrill Gardens, also in Haverhill.

Judge David Goodin told the accused that they would be remanded in custody until their trial.

Their trial is set to take place in July, and is expected to last for up to three days.

PCC: 'Haverhill is just as important'

A NEW PCSO could be allocated to Haverhill – and their job will be to patrol the High Street for illegal parking.

The revelation came when questions about Haverhill's parking issues were raised with Tim Passmore, Suffolk's Police and Crime Commissioner, and Chief Constable Douglas Paxton during their visit to the town.

The session, which took place at Samuel Ward Academy on May 7, was also attended by Inspector Peter Ferrie, policing commander for Haverhill, and West Suffolk Supt Terry Byford. Suffolk County Council is "prepared" to part fund a new PCSO for the town, who will spend the majority of their time on the High Street.

When asked where the rest of the funding would come from, Mr Passmore said that as long as the county was "committed" to the project he was "sure" he could help with the rest.

A spokesman for the county council confirmed that Haverhill county councillors are looking into the possibility of using their locality funding to help with a PCSO, following suggestions from local man John Burns.

Other questions included how the town's streetlights being switched off at midnight has affected crime, and how officers are trained in dealing with vulnerable people.

Mr Passmore also praised the town's officers for their hard work, and said: "Haverhill is just as important as the rest of Suffolk – just because it is in the corner, it should not be ignored."

"It could soon be the third biggest town – so let's go forward together, we all need to help and support each other."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Did you see car vandalised?

A BLUE BMW, parked in Murton Slade, Haverhill, was vandalised on May 1. The car was scratched around the bonnet, boot and along both sides. It happened between 10.30am and 11am. Call Police on 101.

MP's praise for town's police

WEST Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock has thanked police officers in Haverhill for keeping crime down.

Recorded crimes in Haverhill had reduced in January this year to 187, compared to 239 crimes in January 2013.

He said: "I am delighted that we are seeing crime fall here in Haverhill and across the country. This is down to the hard work and dedication of our police force, who do a fantastic job."

Join in with walking challenge

A WALKING challenge across Suffolk has kicked off this week.

Suffolk County Council's public health team is encouraging residents to sign up for the 'Walk This Way' challenge, running until May 31. Participation is free, and everyone who goes online and logs their walk on the challenge website will be entered into a prize draw.

READY, SET, GO: The children enjoying the jousting fun at Barnardiston Hall.

Youngsters have a day (and some knights) to remember

PUPILS and teachers from schools around Haverhill enjoyed a day with medieval knights.

The event, hosted by Barnardiston Hall, included knights riding on horseback, and a falconry display.

Little ones from Hundon and Thurlow primary schools also enjoyed a tour of the preparatory school, which caters for children from 18 months to 13 years, and a lunch with Year 1 pupils.

Tim Dodgson, headmaster, said: "We are very grateful to the Barnardiston Hall PTA for putting on such an exciting event and we were very happy to be able to share the afternoon with the children from Hundon and Thurlow.

"All the children, and staff, enjoyed the afternoon and, as the pictures show, it was an event to remember."

Barnardison Hall provides day education for both boys and girls, and full or weekly boarding is also available.

'I am scared to drink now' woman, 22, tells court

A CASHIER who assaulted three men with her shoe while drunk has escaped custody.

Michelle Tipp, 22, of Bryony Close, Haverhill, pleaded guilty to three offences of assault, causing actual bodily harm.

In July last year, Tipp, who works as a cashier for William Hill, in Haverhill, was on a night out with friends at the town's Bar Vu and had been drinking. She took off her shoe and used it to strike three men on the head.

Robert Sadd, prosecuting, told Ipswich Crown Court the three male victims had been drinking too and could not remember much about the incident. But all suffered cuts from Tipp's shoe, he said.

The 22-year-old, who had been selected for a management training scheme by her employer, told Judge Peter Jacobs she could not explain why she attacked the men.

DEBRA FOX

"I'm scared to drink now," she added.

CCTV recordings did not capture the incident, the court were told, but showed enough to confirm there had been no threat to Tipp to cause her to act as she did.

Judge Jacobs sentenced her to nine months in prison, suspended for one year. She was also ordered to carry out 160 unpaid community work. Tipp will have to pay £500 compensation to each of the victims, as well as £288 prosecution costs and a £100 victim surcharge.

He said: "You just completely lost it and became hysterical. The problem is often these offences are committed by people who are in work because they have the money to pay for drink."

Tipp was sentenced on Wednesday, May 7.

FURRY FRIEND: Mason the tabby cat.

Picture: Giles Henderson.

Please help Mason find a home

KITTENS and cats under the care of the Haverhill and Stour Valley branch of Cats Protection are looking for a home – and Haverhill Weekly News is doing its bit to help.

This week a home is wanted for playful tabby cat, Mason, 2.

He was found wandering the streets and his owners have not been located.

Mason has a lot of affection to give in a new home. He has a playful nature but can be a bit boisterous and would be more suitable for a mature family.

Email contactcats1@gmail.com or visit stourvalley.cats.org.uk.

The adoption fee is £55.

How art helped save my mental health

After being diagnosed with bi-polar disorder, Nicky Mortlock turned to art to help with her recovery – and completely turned her life around. She talks to LYDIA FALLON about the highs, the lows and why she is determined to help others channel their creative side too.

IN OUR darkest moments, we all have different ways of coping with the pain. Some might seek comfort in a friend or relative, others might distract themselves with a favourite book or film, or perhaps a cup of tea and chocolate digestive is your certified spirit-lifter. For Nicky Mortlock, it is in creativity where the 46-year-old finds solace.

When nothing around her makes sense, the simple act of putting pen to paper and letting her emotions come pouring out – be it in the form of a poem or piece of art – is always the best medicine.

"I believe in creative potential and that it is important we all express ourselves and have individual vehicles for that expression. I think that is very healthy," smiles Nicky, when we meet at her home in Milton. "I have always been quite uncomfortable with expressing myself – I felt different and wasn't sure of my relationship to the world – but writing and being creative has allowed me to deal with all sorts of pain that otherwise I wouldn't have been able to. It has helped me through the hard times."

Throughout her life, Nicky has been through plenty of hard times. At her lowest, she locked herself in her bedroom for near on a year, refused food and would not talk to her friends or family. It was a heart-breaking time, and one, Nicky admits, she was lucky to come out of alive. "I just wanted to die, and was doing quite a good job in doing so," she says. "I didn't know how to communicate what I was feeling, and felt so ashamed of who I was."

Although she didn't know it at the time, Nicky was suffering from bi-polar affective disorder, and experiencing one of the extreme episodes of depression which characterise the condition. "I felt so helpless and weak," Nicky remembers. "I just didn't know what to do. I really was unbearable to be around."

These days, it's hard to imagine Nicky plumbing such depths of despair; honest, vivacious and warm, an appetite for life exudes from her every pore, and she's great company.

But her eyes shine brightest when she talks passionately about her new creativity and wellbeing website, ArtiPeeps. "I'm very proud of it," she smiles. "It's very exciting."

An online hub which is quickly growing a dedicated following of fellow "creative souls", Nicky and her team provide unique opportunities for emerging artists and writers: be it through collaborations, exhibitions, publications or installations, it's all about getting people to realise their creative potential.

ArtiPeeps started out as a women's creativity group back in 2012. Nicky and her friends would meet once a month to paint, write poetry and generally have a bit of a giggle, but in the years since it has snowballed. "It was a really scary thing for me to set it up because I hadn't been well for a long time, but I wanted to find my purpose," Nicky explains. "I created the website and thought only the members of my group could see, but in fact it was public and I was having people from all over the world visiting the site. I thought 'There must be something in this, because obviously people are liking what I am providing.'"

"It's a real synthesis of my past experience and my passion and belief in creativity," she adds.

It's given Nicky a whole new lease of life, and, as well as her creativity, the artist has found her health and wellbeing has flourished too. She hopes by sharing her story, others will see that, even during their darkest moments, there is always light at the end of the tunnel. "I want to be as open and honest about my bi-polar as possible, because I have come to be able to manage it. That's not to say I won't get ill or I don't find life difficult, because I do," explains Nicky. Born and raised in Cambridge, as a child Nicky never quite felt like she belonged. Painfully shy, she would often shut herself away from the rest of the world, preferring to spend time lost in her own imagination rather than playing with her friends.

With hindsight, Nicky believes she was suffering from a mood disorder even then. "I had my first depression when I was about 9 years old, but didn't have any treatment and wasn't seen by anyone for years and years," she explains.

The highs and lows continued into adulthood, and although Nicky tried her best to carry on regardless – studying for a degree in English Literature at ARU and working as a script editor for BBC Wales – every so often things would come to head. "At the time I was living with my mother and I basically just spurned her," Nicky remembers. "I couldn't look people in the eye and wouldn't speak."

Feeling lost, scared and alone, Nicky decided it was time she sought help, and in 2004 she plucked up the courage to go to the doctor. They initially told her she was suffering from depression. "I will always remember it: the doctor said 'You are suffering from depression' and I remember saying 'I do have depression then? It isn't just me?'"

"It was like what I was feeling was all my fault and when she said 'You have depression, you are ill, you have something wrong with you' it really did help."

Doctors put Nicky on anti-depressants, but when that didn't work, she was referred to a psychiatrist at Addenbrooke's and eventually diagnosed with bi-polar. Rather than a shock, it was, she concedes, "a revelation". "It was like one of those light bulb moments," she smiles. "Suddenly it was like 'That's why I have been so up and down, that's where all my behaviour comes from.'"

"It was a fantastic moment and a huge relief because I knew who I was and could do something about it. I'd become my illness and that diagnosis, however difficult it was with the implications attached to it, made me feel less helpless."

Previously known as manic depression, bi-polar is a mood disorder which manifests itself in episodes of extreme depression and mania, and is much more common than you might imagine, with NHS figures revealing one in every hundred people in the UK is bi-polar.

"I could be perfectly OK but then it escalates very quickly and can take me about a year to recover," explains Nicky, describing life living with the condition. "I have the kind of bi-polar where I don't get manias; I have hypermanias, which are usually followed by episodes of extreme depression."

"It taps into your individuality in a very particular way and it strikes people in a very individual way too, so you can't really pigeonhole the symptoms. People want to pigeonhole you and say bi-polar is like this or it's like that, but it isn't."

She adds: "When people meet me and I am well, they will often say 'We'd never guess you have bi-polar, you're so perky and so happy.' I guess that's because it is quite a hidden condition in a lot of ways."

Following her diagnosis, Nicky started Cognitive Behavioural Therapy (CBT), and credits it with getting her back on track. "Initially it was about addressing your behaviour and associating it with your emotions. So one of the behaviours I had was I wouldn't go into the shops, so we looked at rating the panic when confronted with that situation – so I might feel 80 per cent anxious and 20 per cent ok," Nicky explains.

"Eventually it starts to work and the cages you've wrapped around yourself start to loosen. A bit more light comes through and the percentage comes down as you start to question why you're feeling like you are."

Nicky also meditates, writes a journal and tries to lead as healthy a life as possible, all of which, she says, helps her to manage the condition. "I will probably get ill again, but I now have the ability to address my symptoms every single day. It takes a lot of work and effort, and is very tiring to be watching out for all these things, but it's worth it."

"You can get so frightened about what life is all about and your ability, but I've realised now that I want to live, even though sometimes I think I want to die – it's quite a peculiar place to be."

Nicky has managed to find her silver lining, but for others who find themselves spiralling into depression, what would her advice be? "Persevere and keep going, even when you're feeling really low," Nicky says. "You have to hold on to the knowledge that it does change and it does pass. 'You have a choice in life and depression makes you think you don't.'"

"You can choose to take your illness head on, to do something about it, grow with it, and know you can't fix it, but you can live with it."

Getting to the art of the matter

ArtiPeeps is currently running a Kickstarter campaign to raise money for their upcoming exhibition, Transformations.

A collaborative poetry-art exhibition based around Ovid's Metamorphoses, Transformations will showcase 29 emerging poets and artists from across the world. The exhibition will take place in September at Hanse House, South Quay, King's Lynn as part of the National Heritage Open Day. Go to kickstarter.com/projects/1153901492/transformations-making-the-virtual-real-to-make-a-donation.

VISIT: Henry Wilson, Lord Tebbit, Ann Merrigan and Barrie Stedman.

Foodbank visit for Lord Tebbit

HAVERHILL'S foodbank has received a visit from Lord Tebbit.

Staff at REACH Community Projects welcomed their guest last month for a tour, and also provided further information about the services they provide.

Henry Wilson, director, said that the team at REACH go deeper than providing a quick fix, and trying to get to the root of the problem.

Lord Tebbit "understood" the issues that REACH are trying to help with, Mr Wilson added.

Ann Merrigan, operations manager, said: "He was friendly, interested in our work and wanted to see what we did."

Visit reachhaverhill.org.uk for more information about the projects.

Five arrests in burglary clampdown

FIVE arrests were made in Haverhill during a day of action against burglaries and associated crimes.

A warrant was executed at a property in Glemsford Place, Haverhill, and an 18-year-old was charged with possession of a Class B drug. The man, Daniel McDermott, of Glemsford Place, will appear at West Suffolk Magistrates Court on May 22.

A 26-year-old man was also reported for summons to court, for possession of a Class B drug.

A further warrant was also carried out in Willow Close in the town.

Three people were arrested at this address, and have since been bailed until July 23.

A 32-year-old woman and 43-year-old man, both of Haverhill, were arrested on suspicion of conspiracy to supply Class A drugs.

DEBRA FOX

A 22-year-old man, from London, was arrested on suspicion of conspiracy to supply Class A drugs, and money laundering.

Officers also arrested a Haverhill man, aged 34, on suspicion of burglary, and theft from shops.

Patrols also took place across the town during this day of action. Officers checked for car and building insecurities and offered crime prevention advice to residents.

If you notice any suspicious activity or believe a crime is in progress, call 999.

Help out furry friends

THE RSPCA in Suffolk is seeking help from residents to help with its work in protecting animals across the county. The charity's Suffolk branch needs people who can conduct home visits, organise local fundraising events, or carry out coffee mornings or jumble sales. The charity is also seeking someone who could write a monthly newsletter to be distributed in the local area, as well as give presentations at events. Caring residents are also wanted to volunteer as dog walkers, cat cuddlers, or supporters for other animals too. If you have any time spare, from half a day per week to two days a month, and can help call Judith on 07715 540151 or judith.garvey@rspca.org.uk.

Pupils learn about caring for pets

STUDENTS from a Haverhill academy have been talking to primary schools about being a responsible pet owner.

The pupils have visited Burton End Primary School, Place Farm Primary Academy and Clements Primary School in honour of National Pet Month.

Top tips include providing a well-balanced and nutritious diet, cleaning up after your pet and carrying out regular grooming.

Phil Sketchley, chairman of National Pet Month, said: "We're delighted Castle Manor Academy students have taken such a proactive approach to deliver these important assemblies.

"They are showing younger students how pets can be companions at all stages in our lives and we need to look after them responsibly to keep them healthy and happy."

Sign up early for Girls Night Out

WOMEN are being encouraged to don their pyjamas for a charity walk.

The Girls Night Out, taking place in aid of St Nicholas Hospice Care, is an 11.2 or six-mile walk around Bury St Edmunds in September. Hundreds have signed up already and a special registration offer is running until May 31. Instead of paying £15 for registration, the cost is only £10 until this date.

Jenny Baskett, Hospice Events and Challenges Fundraiser, said:

"Registering now means not only will you benefit from our early bird offer, but also have more time to raise sponsorship."

Councils praised in 'healthcheck'

LOCAL government staff from across the country have praised West Suffolk's councils.

St Edmundsbury Borough and Forest Heath District Councils opted to take part in a free external "healthcheck", to review how services operate.

Run by the Local Government Association (LGA) and carried out by two council leaders, a chief executive, two deputy chief executives and an LGA adviser, the inspection assessed how the councils have continued to work since combining some services.

The councils decided to share staff and services, including slimlining the management structure, in order to save £3.5 million a year.

The report praised the "ambition" of the councils, and their "recognition" that services had to change to provide what local residents want to see.

Cllr John Griffiths, leader at St Edmundsbury, said: "This report confirms we have successfully worked through a period of very significant change across both councils, enabling us to provide the best possible service, long-term strategic planning, and value for money for our residents and businesses.

"We have managed to maintain the high standards of our services while making further huge savings. There will always be more challenges ahead but, together, we are stronger, smarter, and better placed to serve our communities in West Suffolk."

Cllr James Waters, leader of Forest Heath, added that the report showed they are "getting it right" and "work more smartly" to deliver value for money.

A feedback letter sent to Ian Gallin, chief executive at both local authorities, from Heather Wills, principal adviser at the LGA stated there was "much to be proud of" in West Suffolk.

It said: "You have a unique opportunity in Suffolk to build on strong partnerships with other public agencies in order to drive out further savings and deliver your objectives through joined-up working."

The review, which took place during November and February, saw the check team speak to more than 130 people, including staff, council members and representatives from outside bodies.

The team also spent around 172 hours at council sites, as part of their work.

Making a will can help out hospice care

SOLICITORS are offering to write wills for free – in return for a charity donation.

St Nicholas Hospice Care is holding its annual Wills Weeks event this June, and residents are being encouraged to visit local solicitors and give a donation, instead of paying for the service.

There are 10 companies, including Adams Harrison, in Haverhill, taking part in the initiative. It will run from June 2, to June 27.

Claire Webb, St Nicholas Hospice Care major gifts manager, said: "Last year's Wills Weeks raised more than £16,000 for the Hospice and the average donation was £167 – enough to pay for a nurse's salary for the day.

"This is a significant amount and we hope Wills Weeks 2014 will raise even more."

Adams Harrison is taking part during the week commencing June 2.

Companies in Bury St Edmunds, Newmarket and Stowmarket are also taking part.

Appeal for Great East Swim entrants

A SOAP opera actress has launched Suffolk's Great East Swim.

Catherine Tyldesley, who plays Eva Price in Coronation Street, is encouraging young people to sign up for the event – taking place on June 21 at Alton Water, near Ipswich.

The swim has a choice of half mile, 1 mile, 2 mile and 5 km routes.

Catherine said: "I've always enjoyed pool swimming and I'm really looking forward to taking part in as many of the Great Swim events as possible and swimming in some of the beautiful open water locations the UK has to offer."

Participants can also take part in teams of between four and eight.

Hospice's final challenge for its fundraisers

BUSINESSES are preparing for an "ultimate showdown" with the launch of this year's Accumulator Challenge.

The event started in 2010 in aid of St Nicholas Hospice Care and is sponsored by Towergate Insurance.

Participants are given £50 from the company and are tasked with turning it into as much money as possible through wacky fundraising challenges.

Abby Mayes, hospice corporate fundraiser, is hoping to get as many businesses as possible signed up for a "summer of fun and fundraising".

She said: "I've seen some very unusual fundraising ideas over the years and I have also seen a lot of smiles from those taking part.

"The Accumulator Challenge has proved to be a good team-building exercise as well as a great business networking opportunity.

"But most of all, every penny that has been raised so far and will be raised this year helps to support people facing life-shortening illnesses and their families."

Previous fundraising efforts, which have included fancy dress congas, mechanical pig racing and the more traditional cake sales, have helped to raise a whopping £150,000 for the hospice.

Participating firms will fight it out to win the top prize. This, along with a range of other accolades, will be presented at an event in September.

The final total will also be revealed.

Paul Whittaker, of Towergate Insurance, said: "In this, the Hospice's 30th anniversary year, it seems fitting to make the 2014 event extra special and the 'ultimate showdown'."

This year's Towergate Accumulator Challenge will be the last.

For more information about the challenge, or to get involved contact Abby on 01284 715583.

Pupils need to learn about money

MP Matthew Hancock is supporting an initiative to get pupils in Suffolk learning about money.

Mr Hancock is encouraging schools to put on lessons about money in June to give pupils a "head start" in financial education before it becomes compulsory in the national curriculum in September.

The proposed lessons will be held alongside My Money Week, running from June 9 to June 15, by the national financial education charity Personal Finance Education Group.

The MP said: "Money Week offers schools the perfect opportunity to prepare for the new curriculum due in September.

"The online resources are free and readily available to teachers and classrooms.

"It is fundamental that we teach our children the importance of money while inspiring them to become more financially capable to help limit problems in later life.

"I hope as many schools as possible in West Suffolk get involved."

Speeding drivers snared in countywide crackdown

ALMOST 700 motorists were caught speeding across Suffolk in a week-long enforcement campaign.

During the seven days of checks, 659 drivers were seen speeding in Suffolk.

Fixed cameras caught 133 motorists speeding, while the other 526 were caught by police officers on patrol or mobile cameras.

The campaign was carried out with the Roads Policing Unit and vans from Suffolk SafeCam, and led by TISPOL, the European Traffic Police Network.

Chief Inspector Chris Spinks said: "The TISPOL week of action is a good way to focus attention on speeding and the risks you take when you go over the limit.

"Simply put, speeding makes you more likely to have a collision which can cause damage, expense, injury or ultimately the loss of life."

Speeding is seen as one of the fatal four driving offences, along with drink driving, using a mobile phone and seatbelt offences.

Police endeavoured to highlight the dangers of speeding to drivers through education and enforcement, with most being given a £100 fine and three points.

Mr Spinks added: "There is never an excuse to speed, and all of those stopped will have been spoken to about their driving behaviour.

"Some have received a fixed penalty notice or if they were driving excessively over the limit, they will be considered for a prosecution at court."

Premier Tyres has focus on.... tyres!

ADVERTISING FEATURE

IT's all change at Premier Tyres at the moment!

The popular Haverhill company has recently decided due to a change in personal circumstances to go back to what they do best, and simply focus on selling tyres. The thriving family business is run by Pete Stretton, who took over the company six years ago, in which time it has gone from strength to strength with the support of close friends and family. The whole family like to muck in: wife Jo helps out as well, and at the weekend their daughters join them too.

What has made their business such a success? They believe that it is down to their honesty and their prices. Premier Tyres take pride in their reputation for trustworthiness. As Jo puts it: "If your tyres don't need changing, then we'll tell you. We won't sell you anything unnecessarily."

This honest and straightforward approach has seen customers recommend their services to others, as well as coming back themselves time and time again.

On price, too, they aim not to be beaten. Many new customers find Premier Tyres by searching locally for the best prices in town: and end up at their door!

This friendly and helpful business will always do its best to find the right tyres for you. As well as stocking most brands, they will go the extra mile to seek a particular tyre out for you if they can.

All in all, it is easy to see why so many people in Haverhill and as far afield as Sudbury, Newmarket and Bury have made Premier Tyres their premier choice for tyres and puncture repairs.

Visit Premier Tyres at Unit 6, Reeds Lane, Haverhill, CB9 0EL or telephone them on (01440) 714330 to find out more.

Mark Grist

The poet, rap battler and all round nice guy goes rogue and returns to Cambridge Junction for a show that'll make your mind work. ELLA WALKER has a chat with him

■ Mark Grist: Rogue Teacher, Cambridge Junction, Thursday, May 22 at 8pm. Tickets £13 from (01223) 511511 / junction.co.uk

MARK Grist is ridiculously inventive.

A former Peterborough teacher turned poet and ethically sound rapper (you won't find him spouting anything homophobic, misogynistic or racist), Grist has a serious knack for wordplay. Oh, and he ticks all the boxes for charisma, enthusiasm and lyrical speed.

First breaking out in 2012 after teaching teenage grime artist MC Blizzard a thing or two in a rap battle that went viral (it's clocked more than 4 million YouTube views) he spends his time challenging the stereotypes of poetry and hip-hop, visiting poets' graves and is now bringing his latest show, Rogue Teacher, to Cambridge Junction.

The show, which got rave reviews at the 2013 Edinburgh Festival, revolves around Grist's life, going from loving so much about being an English teacher, to becoming increasingly frustrated with Government policy and the red-taped bureaucracy being lashed across classrooms.

"Eventually, after a lot of telling young people to follow their hearts and use their skills and do everything they ever wanted to do with their lives, I decided I should do the same," explains Grist, who initially left his teaching post for a year. "The show is this story of leaving the classroom, realising it was actually quite a safe environment and going out into the wide world to try to exist as a poet, facing the kind of gruelling poverty and bizarre series of hoops you have to jump through in order to make a living as an artist."

He really did go from teaching GCSE English to rap battling on YouTube. "I accidentally became kind of pseudo-famous," he says in bemusement. That Blizzard rap, which saw him slam the 17-year-old with lines like "don't start clicking, I know this might look like some kind of extreme babysitting" and "you'd still give yourself a hernia trying to assemble flatpack furniture" while wearing a suit, mind, transformed everything.

"All of a sudden people know me as a rap battler instead of as a poet," says Grist. "No one's really that interested in my poetry as such, but people are stopping me in the street and asking me to insult them."

Rogue Teacher grapples with how that sits with him being a teacher and "whether that contradicts some of the values you originally had."

Grist explains that he wants to inspire people and make them realise "we don't really need to do anything that we don't want to do; it's quite possible to create our own jobs".

Starring in a new Channel 4 documentary series with the fantastic Mr Drew from Educating Essex has definitely given him a challenging element to teaching again. Mr Drew's School for Boys takes 11 of the most excluded boys in the country and aims to show that no young person should be given up on, and that there are always ways to break the cycle of poor behaviour.

"It's really challenging, but it's really exciting as well and it's probably one of the toughest things I've ever done in my life," explains Grist. "Hopefully it will make people realise these families aren't alone, there's lots of behaviour that's stopping children from fully engaging and I think some young people just get written off and we think that can't be resolved. I hope we show there are ways we can fix aspects of this behaviour."

■ 'Tis Pity She's a Whore, Cambridge Arts Theatre, until Saturday, May 17 at 7.45pm. Tickets £15-£30 from (01223) 503333 or cambridgeartstheatre.purchase-tickets-online.co.uk

IT'S basically a Jacobean version of Game of Thrones. First published in 1633, 'Tis Pity She's a Whore was immediately and raucously slated for its bloody, incestuous and corrupt themes.

While the critics have mellowed towards John Ford's seminal play over the intervening centuries (yes, it's definitely taken a while), and learnt to appreciate it, even today it still has elements that will make your stomach writhe and your hands leap to your eyes.

A tragedy of outlawed lovers – brother and sister Giovanni and Annabella – patched together with murder, deceit and total destruction, the Cheek by Jowl Theatre Company is restaging their 2012 production for a regional tour.

Devised by Declan Donnellan and Nick Ormerod, the doomed siblings trudge towards hell in more modern trappings than their original counterparts (expect rap music and the odd leather-clad stripper), but are just as reckless with their choices.

The Guardian explains the crux of the show's enduring fascination: "The greatness of Ford's play lies in the fact that it neither exculpates nor condemns its amorous siblings: it simply presents their passion as something inescapably doomed in a hypocritically religious world."

■ On the cinema front A LONG WAY DOWN (15) is showing on Saturday 17 and Wednesday 28 May at 7.30pm. Starring Pierce Brosnan and Toni Collette, the film is based on Nick Hornby's 2005 bestseller about a group of misfits who have all decided to jump off the roof of the same high-rise building one New Year's Eve.

■ Unfortunately the Haverhill Drama Festival which normally takes place in the spring has been postponed until September. And so now we can look forward to both the season of mists and mellow fruitfulness – and the season of one-act plays performed by regional amateur theatre groups!

■ Events to look out for include a recorded broadcast from the National Theatre of THE CURIOUS INCIDENT OF THE DOG IN THE NIGHT-TIME on Saturday 24 May at 7pm. Based on Mark Haddon's award-winning novel, the production won seven Olivier Awards including Best Play in 2013.

■ The top stars of LDN WRESTLING return on Sunday 25 May with a brand new 2014 show for all the family. See the highest quality, fastest paced, non-stop wrestling action ever seen on these shores at 3pm.

■ Image Musical Theatre who brought The Wizard of Oz and The Wind In the Willows to us, return with THE JUNGLE BOOK on Thursday 29 May at 2pm, a family participation musical set in the vibrant tropical jungle of India and adapted from the original Rudyard Kipling story. Get involved in the production as during the light-hearted rehearsal, some children from the audience are taught the choruses of four songs. The rehearsal is 30 minutes, followed by an interval and then a one hour performance.

■ It's 'Springtime' for the popular Centre Stage Company as they return with THE PRODUCERS from Tuesday 3 to Saturday 7 June. Mel Brooks's hit film, tells the story of Producers Max Bialystock and Leo Bloom who try to make money by producing a sure-fire Broadway flop. Max selects an incredibly tasteless script, hires the worst director he can find and finds a terrible cast but against all the odds audiences love it!

■ On Thursday 12 June at 7pm we have a broadcast from the National Theatre of A SMALL FAMILY BUSINESS, a riotous exposure of entrepreneurial greed by Olivier Award-winning playwright Alan Ayckbourn. Jack McCracken: a man of principle in a corrupt world. But not for long. Moments after taking over his father-in-law's business he is approached by a private detective armed with some compromising information ...

film of the week

THE TWO FACES OF JANUARY (12A, 96 mins)
LIKE Agatha Christie before her, Patricia Highsmith repeatedly challenged the moral compass of her readers with disturbing psychological thrillers that nudged her characters to the brink of madness.

In her debut novel, Strangers On A Train, she conceived a seemingly perfect murder for every disgruntled husband, which Hitchcock brilliantly adapted for the big screen.

Almost 50 years later, Anthony Minghella tapped into the disturbing sexual undercurrents of her 1955 novel The Talented Mr Ripley for a hauntingly seductively jaunt through Italy that netted five Oscar nominations.

The Two Faces Of January was published almost a decade after Highsmith unleashed her iconic con artist, Tom Ripley, and once again, she indulges in obsession-fuelled skulduggery albeit against a vivid backdrop of sun-baked 1960s Athens.

Hossein Amini's slow-burning film version conceals its Machiavellian machinations behind an elegant facade of impeccable period costumes and picturesque cinematography.

Yet, while this assured directorial debut is sweeping in scope, the focus of Amini's lean script is the characters' strained relationships and notably the frayed bonds of trust between two men, who must rely on each other to escape a hairy predicament of their own making.

The film opens at the Acropolis where American businessman Chester MacFarland (Viggo Mortensen) and younger wife Colette (Kirsten Dunst) cut elegant figures on the steps of the citadel.

Greek-speaking guide Rydal (Oscar Isaac), who scams unsuspecting tourists out of hard-earned drachmas, is drawn to the glamorous couple and he gladly accepts their invitation to dinner.

At the end of the night, as he makes his way home, Rydal discovers Colette has mislaid a possession on the back seat of the taxi so he asks the driver to make a detour to the MacFarlands' exclusive hotel.

Unexpectedly, Rydal walks in on Chester moving the seemingly unconscious body of a man (David Warshofsky) into another room.

The businessman explains that he was protecting his wife. Blinded by his infatuation with Colette, Rydal pledges his help and suggests a means to obtain fake passports and escape the country.

As the trio heads for the coast, the police give chase.

"We're joined at the hip," Chester assures Rydal. "I get caught, I take you down. You get caught, you turn me in."

Shot on location in Greece and Turkey, The Two Faces Of January nods appreciatively to both Highsmith and Hitchcock, ratcheting up tension as the two men trade verbal blows in order to secure Colette's divided affections.

Mortensen and Isaac relish these fractious exchanges, creating a twisted father-son dynamic with Oedipal yearnings for Dunst's third wheel.

Her role feels slightly undernourished but she's pivotal to the on-screen chicanery and the film's centrepiece sequence in subterranean gloom.

Because it's under the comforting cloak of darkness that men's ugly, true natures are revealed.

Must-haves for gardeners

IT'S not only ideas for planting your own garden that blossom when you visit garden shows – it's ideas about the accessories, tools and trinkets you see along the way, too.

The main horticultural event of the year, the RHS Chelsea Flower Show, is no exception. Once again this year, on Tuesday, May 20, it will announce its Chelsea Garden Product of the Year, showcasing the must-have new products for gardeners, covering everything from crop protection to environmentally-friendly furniture.

Launched in 2011 to recognise the best new garden products on the market, the event is judged by an expert panel of garden journalists, industry buyers and business entrepreneurs, taking into account innovation, visual appeal, functionality, quality, value for money and environmental sustainability.

From a sneak peek at the 17 shortlisted products, here are some of the most practical and affordable contenders.

● If you have a problem protecting tender crops against insects, including flea beetle, look out for Tendamesh (£9.99 for 4m x 2.1m, www.agralan.co.uk), a lightweight mesh which does the job brilliantly.

● Avoid back-breaking bulb planting with Burgon & Balls's Stainless Long Handled Bulb Planter (RRP £29.95, www.burgonandball.com), which slices through soil with ease thanks to its sharp, angled blade. It has a stainless steel head for effective rust resistance with an FSC certified ash handle for comfort and long life.

● For stylish outdoor living, Gaze Burvill craftsmen have created a superbly comfortable outdoor bar stool from sustainably forested oak, with curve and contour shaping giving unrivalled ergonomic performance, and an elegant, light, modern look. The A La Carte bar stool is priced £720, available from www.gazeburvill.com.

● Harrod Horticultural is shortlisted for its new Stormproof Vegetable Cage, which features ingenious new 'Frame Saver Clips' to save frameworks from hurricanes and snow while keeping plants protected. They also allow exceptionally easy plant access. Kits priced from £49 – www.harrodhorticultural.com.

CLOCKWISE FROM ABOVE: The Pico Reel, the Napoli Solar Garden light, Tendamesh and the A La Carte bar stool

● After all the rain we had this winter, some gardeners might have wondered if they'd ever need to use a hosepipe again. But if you do, the new Pico Reel, a pint-sized version from Hozelock (RRP £29.99, www.hozelock.com), is just the job for watering small garden spaces. Compact, lightweight and easy to rewind, it can be manoeuvred with ease and comes ready to use with fittings and spray gun.

● If you don't want to damage your outdoor walls, Plant Prop may be the answer. It is great for holding plants against a wall without the need for nails, screws or any other accessories and is particularly useful in courtyard or small gardens. £10 for a pack of three, www.plantsupports.co.uk.

● Gentle lighting is achieved with the Napoli Solar Garden Light (£24.99, www.solartechnology.co.uk), whose lithium-ion battery is charged from an internal solar panel to give an impressive 2.4m downward light pool, plus an upward soft accent.

● If sustainability is your thing, invest in some Twoool Rope, ideal for tying in trees and large shrubs or for a plethora of other uses. It's made from twoool twine, a British wool alternative to imported jute twine and is outstanding in strength, stretch and breaking load. From £3.50 to £21, www.twoool.co.uk.

The RHS Chelsea Flower Show, sponsored by M&G Investments, runs from May 20-24 in the grounds of the Royal Hospital, Chelsea. See www.rhs.org.uk.

UNRIVALLED COVERAGE AROUND HAVERHILL

Haverhill

Guide Price £450,000

A truly stunning three bedroom detached bungalow which has been purposely extended and inconspicuously adapted for disabled use. The property enjoys a generous and attractive low maintenance garden, en suite wet room and spacious kitchen/ breakfast room. No onward chain. The property was brought and adapted by the current owners a few years ago, it has been done by builders specialising in property adaptations for those with disabilities although in my opinion the changes are subtle with many un-noticeable. An internal viewing is strongly recommended to fully appreciate its size, design and functionality.

THE original Mini, first introduced in 1959, is the best-ever British car, according to a survey of Autocar readers.

The poll also named Norfolk-based Lotus as the most popular British manufacturer, with seven of its models making the 100 best British cars list.

Following the Mini at the top of the list was the McLaren F1, with the Jaguar E-type third and the Range Rover fourth.

Jaguar and Ford both had six cars in the top 100, including the Jaguar D-type and the Ford Sierra RS Cosworth, while Aston Martin had five, including the DB5 – a favourite with 007 James Bond.

Created by Sir Alec Issigonis, the Mini achieved worldwide fame, being dubbed the first “classless car”. The marque was successfully revived in a larger and more-powerful version by BMW in 2003.

Autocar brand editor Chas Hallett said: “It comes as little surprise that the original Mini has topped the list of all-time

British greats.

“It’s such an iconic vehicle and represents a lot more than the British car industry; the Mini is associated with Great Britain around the world and, in many ways, it was ahead of its time.”

He went on: “Everyone loved and still loves an original Mini. It ensured a fabulous drive every time, with a wheel literally at each corner and a low centre of gravity, plus it was cheap to own and run.”

“Many a former owner will undoubtedly be wishing they had held on to theirs, as good examples are now worth tens of thousands of pounds.”

This was the Autocar top 10:

1. Original Mini
2. McLaren F1
3. Jaguar E-type
4. Range Rover
5. Yamaha Motiv.E
6. McLaren P1
7. Jaguar XJ220
8. Aston Martin DB5
9. TVR Griffith
10. Ford Escort Mexico

WINNER: The Skoda Octavia Estate

Diesel win for Skoda

The SKODA Octavia Estate is Diesel Car magazine’s ‘Best Estate Car’ for 2014, making it the fifth category win SKODA has collected since 2009. The magazine’s editor and publisher, Ian Robertson, commented: “Clever thinking and roominess are two of SKODA’s watchwords and medium cars don’t get more spacious than the Octavia Estate. With an enormous 1,740 litres of space on offer with the seats folded down, you have room for everything family life can throw at it.”

The 2014 awards also saw a trio of ‘Highly Commended’ honours for the brand, including the SKODA Superb Estate in the ‘Best Estate Car’ category won by the Octavia Estate.

The Superb was picked out in the ‘Best Large Car’, while the Octavia vRS earned the same tribute in the ‘Best Hot-Hatch Sports Car’ sector.

ALPHA CENTAURI FOR WINDOWS Sid Meier's Alpha Centauri for Windows. Product InformationFans of earlier Sid Meier games, such as Civilization and Railroad Tycoon, will love Sid Meier's Alpha Centauri, the strategy game where players lead a colony expedition on a new planet. This game employs the same rules and concepts as Civilization, but with a new, slicker interface. Within the game, you can now automate tasks that—in the earlier game—were repetitive and dull. The factions also have a better mix of leaders; three of the game's factions are headed by women. Players begin by claiming leadership of one of seven colony factions, establishing a base on the unexplored world. A balance of priorities is critical: conquering territory, developing technology, and expanding the faction's population are all crucial factors in your survival. If a faction's output is low, it may be vulnerable to attacks by others or by dangerous mind worms that roam the landscape. £5 Tel: 07973 406655

SIMCITY 3000 FOR WINDOWS SimCity 3000 FOR WINDOWS: Don't cry for me, SimCity. As the mayor—potentate, really—the entire future and design of the city is within your hands. A classic city—simulation game, the new version boasts scores of cool improvements, including more refined graphics. The infrastructure of your new home is intense, and so are the tasks at hand: building roads, establishing water and power lines, providing civil protection through fire and police stations—and reviewing city finances to make capital decisions things can happen. The realistic details in SimCity 3000 are what make it brilliant: an icon for subway to rail connection allows you to create a spot for your city residents to change trains on their daily commute. The pleasing graphics offer color palates similar that Diego Rivera painting. It's a Rockefeller center mall. With an endless array of satisfying options and fascinating possibilities, a review of this edition reveals almost ridiculous hyperbole and praises: Don't cry for me, SimCity. SHOGUN: TOTAL WAR WARLORD:WINDO Shogun: Total War Warlord Edition for Windows. The ultimate Shogun collection. Command up to 5,000 troops in the game play. Contains the complete Shogun: Total War game, plus two expansion packs. Also includes new military units, terrain, buildings, and scenarios. Defend your throne from Kublai Khan and his Mongol horde, take part in the Campaign of the Three Unifications or engage in instant-action skirmishes inspired by the war epics of director Akira Kurosawa. Shogun: Total War Warlord Edition perfectly captures the chaos, conflict and beauty of ancient warfare. Shogun thrusts you into the unstable politics of 16th-century feudal Japan. You command vast warbands of loyal samurai and other troops against six other factions in massive battles that will determine the fate of Japan itself. You can learn the art of war by studying the included tutorial missions, hone and test your skills by leading historical battles, or enter the problems of chieftains and go for the ultimate goal: becoming Shogun. Campaign play is divided into two portions—the strategic overview map where you manage your armies and provinces and the tactical combat mode where battles are fought. £5 Tel: 07973 406655

ALPHA CENTAURI FOR WINDOWS Sid Meier's Alpha Centauri for Windows. Product InformationFans of earlier Sid Meier games, such as Civilization and Railroad Tycoon, will love Sid Meier's Alpha Centauri, the strategy game where players lead a colony expedition on a new planet. This game employs the same rules and concepts as Civilization, but with a new, slicker interface. Within the game, you can now automate tasks that—in the earlier game—were repetitive and dull. The factions also have a better mix of leaders; three of the game's factions are headed by women. Players begin by claiming leadership of one of seven colony factions, establishing a base on the unexplored world. A balance of priorities is critical: conquering territory, developing technology, and expanding the faction's population are all crucial factors in your survival. If a faction's output is low, it may be vulnerable to attacks by others or by dangerous mind worms that roam the landscape. £5 Tel: 07973 406655

Borough second string are on the up after play-off

HAVERHILL Borough reserves celebrated a successful first season by clinching victory in the Newmarket Motor Company League, Division Two play-off final.

Borough's second string was only formed last year and already have their first silverware in the cabinet after defeating Wisbech St Mary reserves 2-0 at the New Croft.

The hosts went ahead after 25 minutes when Paul Jenkin evaded the Wisbech defence. His shot was blocked by goalkeeper Dan Smith, but the ball deflected across the Wisbech six-yard box, for Ryan Weaver to fire into an empty net.

Weaver netted a penalty five minutes into the second half after being brought down by Smith.

The victory secured both the NMC League 2A title and the play-off final.

Gavin Taylor took the supporters' player and players' player of the season awards at Borough's presentation evening.

Ross Elkins was named manager's player of the season, Weaver was top scorer, and Harry and Joshua Brown were named clubmen of the year.

For the reserves, Roger Dourado was player of the year, Mark Cutts was manager's player of the year, Jenkin was top scorer and John Roper got clubman of the year.

Rovers' Hunt earns two season awards

MARCUS Hunt took a pair of the awards at Haverhill Rovers' end-of-season presentation evening.

Defender Hunt was named by boss Dean Greygoose as manager's player of the season and chosen as players' player of the season by his team-mates.

Hunt also collected the supporters' player of the year award on behalf of Greg Strong.

Dan Jeffrey got the young player of the season gong and Dan Cornwell collected the goal of the season honour for his effort against Ely City.

In the reserve team honours, Connor Goodings was chosen as manager's player of the season by boss Michael Bavester.

Liam Roberts was named players' player of the season and reserve team coach

Barry Duffy received a special presentation from Chris Claydon on behalf of the players as well.

For the under-18s, Jack Howard took both players' player and manager's player of the season accolades.

Several of the club's other members were also honoured with awards and presentations.

Rovers president Terry McGerty presented chairman Ali Shulver with a trophy in honour of his work done behind the scenes over the course of the season.

In turn, Shulver handed the chairman's award to club secretary Julie Ankers, who was also presented with flowers along with committee member Sarah Woodley.

Shulver thanked Bavester and Duffy for their efforts with the reserve teams, as well as fixtures secretary Peter Betts and others for the under-18s.

The committee were also thanked for their hard work and many hours of their time over the past year.

Betts himself thanked John Linnane, Woodley, Lisa Shulver and Nicola Boddey for running the home facilities during under-18 games, presenting flowers to Boddey and Shulver.

Dance of delight: Hannah Dance receives her certificate

Hannah makes history

HANNAH Dance became the first female, and youngest member, of Chalkstone Karate Club to become a second dan black belt when she achieved the grade at an examination at the Toyakwai Karate Association dojo in Witham.

Dance, 16, was required to demonstrate hundreds of techniques, perform a number of kata (a pre-set sequence of moves) and fight.

She had been preparing for the test for two years, after she achieved her first dan black belt in 2012.

Dance received her certificate from sensei Joe Anderson, an eight dan black belt and head of the Toyakwai Karate Association.

Batchelor battles to victory on bow

JAKE Batchelor made a winning start to life in white collar boxing at the inaugural Haverhill Fight Night.

Featuring a mixture of white collar bouts and Thai boxing fights, home puncher Batchelor came through 29-28 on points in a close-fought clash with Rob Jervis, from Cambridge's Thomas A Becket gym, at Abbey Croft Leisure Centre.

Haverhill's Carl Ledger was narrowly defeated in a thrilling Thai encounter with Tony Thomas, from the East Area Muay Thai Club, while Luke Monks also lost a close Thai bout on points to Rob Brooks.

Thomas A Becket saw Henry Morling beat his opponent 29-29 on points, but clubmate Phil Hernandez may have to quit boxing after suffering a third broken nose in the space of two months after losing his contest.

Matt Fitch, who organised the event with friend Neil Spokes, ended the event with a bout against Ali Yagir.

The Teenage Cancer Trust will benefit by more than £1,000 from the tournament, which featured 10 bouts.

Opal leaves on high after Blackjacks win

TOMMY Opal signed off from Haverhill Blackjacks with a 13-9 win at home to Kent Mariners to go top of the British Baseball Federation, A South Division.

Player-head coach Opal had his last outing for Blackjacks, the club he helped establish last year, before returning to his native USA.

But he went out on a high note, taking to the mound as opening pitcher and putting in a solid performance with his curveball in leading the hosts to victory.

Kent took an early advantage, but Haverhill hit back to go 3-2 up by the bottom of the eighth inning.

Ryan Pflugh proved to be in hot form, chalking up hits in each of his four bats, including a two-run home run, while Daniel Becking added a solo home run and rookie Alan Symons looked comfortable at the plate again and also scored as Blackjacks went 6-4 ahead.

By the sixth inning, the hosts were 9-4 to the good with Ryan Harris smashing a two-RBI double to break a recent slump in form, with Symons and Pflugh adding singles and doubles respectively.

But the Mariners staged a remarkable comeback, drawing level at 9-9 at the top of the eighth inning.

And it looked as if it could get worse for Haverhill as the visitors loaded the bases and threatened to snatch the lead.

Relief pitcher Steven Fuentes remained calm though, and let loose with a fast ball, fielding an infield hit before tossing the ball to first base to record a force out.

Blackjacks returned to the plate and added four runs to their tally with Fuentes, Blake Broekhoven, Marcus Gooday and Chris Loades all reaching base and Fuentes clinched three outs to seal the victory.

Haverhill will be back in action at London Musketeers on Sunday, before travelling to Hemel Hempstead to take on Herts Raptors on May 25.

Notley double caps five-star Wratting win

PAUL Notley got a brace in West Wratting under-16's 5-1 win against Huntingdon Rowdies in Cambridge & District Colts League, Division 16B.

Alex Nolan flicked the ball home for their opener after Mo Horsley had steered a throw from Jake Murphy into his path.

Cameron Larkin increased the lead when Paul Jenkinson played him in, and Jessie Luff netted minutes later after catching the defence off-guard.

Notley added the fourth after chasing down a Luff header, and although Rowdies pulled one back, Notley was in again to chip the keeper for his second.

West Wratting under-14s ended the season with a 5-0 defeat against Teversham in 14A.

Jack Lisher and Josh Lee bagged hat-tricks in West Wratting's 7-3 triumph over Comberton Crusaders in BM Kempton 9v9 Youth League 12A.

Lisher opened the scoring in the eighth minute and Lee added his first of the game three minutes later.

Lee was in again on the quarter hour, with James Iron also getting in on the scoring act.

Lee completed his treble in the first half as Wratting held a commanding 5-1 lead at the interval.

Comberton pulled two more back in the second half, but Lisher added another two goals to his personal tally as Wratting ran out comfortable victors.

Oliver Santry hit a brace as Aztecs White defeated Red Lodge 3-1 in Cambridgeshire Mini Soccer League, Division 10C.

The game was goalless at the interval, but the deadlock was broken by top scorer Santry when play resumed.

He added their second from a corner, before Red Lodge pulled one back from a free kick.

Freddie Hounsborne settled the game for Aztecs though, side-footing the ball home after being set up by Bart Purser.

Brandon McKay claimed Haverhill Rovers under-14s' golden boot and goal of the season awards at their end-of-season trophy presentations.

McKay's 25 goals saw him finish as Rovers' top scorer.

Aaron Wiseman was named players' player of the year, Billy Ager took manager's player of the year and Jordan Newman was supporters' player of the year.

McKay got a brace for Rovers in their 5-2 friendly win over Melbourn Dynamos, held before the presentations.

David Scott, Shane Gambin and Isaac Betts were also on target.
